

URGES ACTIVE WORK.

Mr. Wilson Says the Session of Congress Should Not Be Routine.

CIVIL SERVICE EXTENDED.

Twenty-Five Hundred Internal Revenue Officers Given the Law's Protection. Effort to Get Tariff Bills Before the Senate Fails—House Debates on Pensions and Income Tax—Other Matter.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Mr. Wilson of West Virginia, chairman of the house committee on ways and means, believes that the present should be an active session of congress. "The session," said he, "should not be a routine one, as the chances of retrieving Democratic supremacy depend on a full and solid record of reform legislation. To do little or nothing except pass the appropriation bills and the lean list of measures said to have been agreed on by some of our party leaders would justify the charge that the Democratic party is incapable of affirmative and coherent policy. The country and the Democratic party have a right to vote on the substitute tariff bills sent to the senate dealing with coal, iron ore, sugar, free alcohol and barbed wire, and there are some amendments to the administrative parts of the tariff bills suggested by the treasury department that call for action.

Our treaty and trade relations with Germany demand the repeal of the discriminating tax against German sugar, and the protection of our own people against the trust calls for the repeal of the 1-8 cent protection on refined sugars. Opponents of the income tax are told by friends of the trust that the repeal of these two differentials is in the interest of that tax. On the contrary, such repeal would somewhat increase the import of refined sugar, add to our revenues and moderate the power of the trust over American consumers. We should also pass a good banking bill.

NOT TAKEN UP.

Votes in the Senate Were Against Tariff and Closure Bills.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Senator Gray made an unsuccessful attempt to have considered in the senate yesterday the bill reported from the finance committee striking out all the differential duty in favor of refined sugar and leaving all sugar dutiable at 40 per cent ad valorem. There were a great many absentees, so that the defeat was not so decisive as to discourage further efforts of the same kind.

A majority vote of 10 against taking up the closure resolution indicates, it is believed, the improbability of changing the rules at this session. Mr. Morgan again addressed the senate on the Nicaraguan bill and in concluding expressed his intention of soon asking that unanimous consent be given fixing a time for a vote on the bill.

There was considerable expectancy when Mr. Gray attempted to secure precedence for the tariff measure. He thought the tariff bills of greatest importance and thought the senate should be given a chance to say whether they should be considered. Mr. Morgan objected to the canal bill being laid aside. Senator Berry of Arkansas demanded a ye and nay vote, and while this proceeded a good deal of shifting about and no little delay was occasioned. As announced the vote resulted:

Ye—Bate, Berry, Blackburn, Caffery, Cockrell, Coke, Faulkner, George, Gray, Harris, Hill, Hutton, Jarvis, McLaurin, McPherson, Mills, Palmer, Pasco, Pugh, Vest, Vilas, Voorhees, Walsh—23.

Nays—Aldrich, Allen, Allison, Blanchard, Cullom, Dolph, Dabbs, Gallinger, Hale, Hansbrough, Hawley, Higgins, Hoar, Kyle, Lodge, McMillan, Mendenhall, Martin, Mitchell of Oregon, Morrill, Peffer, Perkins, Platt, Power, Quay, Roach, Teller—21.

PERSONS AND INCOME TAX.

They Form the Themes For Lively Debate in the House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The house yesterday entered upon the consideration of the urgency deficiency appropriation bill. The bill contained two disputed items—the appropriation for special pension examiners and the appropriation for the collection of the income tax. The former appropriation opened the doors for a debate on the conduct of the pension office, and especially the practice of summarily suspending the payment of alleged fraudulent pensions. The debate on the income tax appropriation was especially lively, but the motion to strike it out was defeated in committee by a vote of 54 to 127. It is probable that a record making vote will be demanded in the house today.

GOLD WITHDRAWALS.

Heavy Shock Given the Reserve in the Treasury—Full Tide of Exportation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The net gold balance in the treasury has received another heavy shock by the withdrawal of $2,150,000 from the subtreasury in New York yesterday, which leaves the true net balance $103,378,475. Of the amount withdrawn yesterday, only $1,300,000 is thought to be for export. The full tide of gold exportation seems to have set in, and when it will cease is a problem which the treasury officials do not care to discuss. So far this month and during the last of November withdrawals have been reported every day in sums ranging from $40,042 to $2,150,000.

Tariff Error Alleged.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Senator Cameron has introduced a bill for amendment of the tariff law providing for a duty of 5 cents per square yard on nemp and jute carpets and carpeting. With the bill he presented a statement made by the manager of the Roxbury mills of Plymouth, Pa., representing that the rate fixed on these carpets in the new tariff law is an error and that it has proven to be so serious that it had closed all the jute carpet factories in the country.

Death Penalty Abolishment.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Senator Mitchell of Oregon has introduced a bill in the senate providing for the abolishment of the death penalty in the army and navy except in cases of murder, rape, desertion to the enemy in time of war and aggravated mutiny.

CIVIL SERVICE EXTENDED.

Twenty-Five Hundred Internal Revenue Employees Protected by Law.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The president yesterday, after a conference with Secretary Carlisle and Commissioner Miller of the internal revenue bureau, issued an order extending the civil service law and rules to the internal revenue service. The new extension will embrace 518 storekeepers, 578 gaugers, 1,100 storekeeper gaugers and 185 clerks in the offices of the collectors, making 2,471 in all. Deputy collectors, of which there are 963, are not included in this order, nor are the deputies which will be appointed to assist in the collection of income tax. The new order goes into immediate effect.

Indiana Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Among the fourth class postmasters appointed are the following for Indiana: Harry Kendrick, Ashland; William Erwin, Barton; Charles Jean, Farmer; G. W. Landes, Libertyville; W. R. Shaw, Luray; J. D. Kausch, Rome.

Peffer Wants Trusts Assailed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Senator Peffer has introduced a bill to authorize United States district attorneys to institute proceedings in equity, independent of the directions of the attorney general, under the antitrust act.

Back to the White House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The president and Mrs. Cleveland have abandoned their country home at Woodley for the season and moved into the white house.

A. R. U. DIRECTORS.

It May Happen That Judge Woods Will Terminate Their Meeting.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—The board of directors of the American Railway union is having its regular quarterly meeting. All the directors are present except R. M. Goodwin. Reports show that a number of local unions are in a demoralized condition owing to the strike of last summer, but the officers say they are more than satisfied with those found to be intact. Seven new unions are reported as organized within the last 30 days. The difficulty between President Debs and President Gompers appears to be increasing. Debs gives out the following statement:

"Gompers' statement that I asked him to aid in the strike is a mistake. Gompers was asked to attend a conference of all of the labor leaders of the country to be held in Chicago to discuss the strike, but refused to come. Later, his own organization in Chicago met and ordered him to come to Chicago. He came because he was so ordered, and not of his own volition. At no stage of the trouble did I ask him to strike. When the conference was held here I stated the situation but made no request for assistance, and if Gompers says otherwise I can disprove it."

In reply to a question Debs said: "The present session of the directors will last until Saturday night unless it should be terminated by Judge Woods. The court will decide the contempt cases Friday, and it may happen that there will be no directors left to go on with the meeting."

CAIN'S CRIME.

Charley Forward His Brother With an Ax and Saw—His Clashes on Fire.

WINSTON, Dec. 13.—A special to The Free Press from Landenburg, Assiniboia, says: Yesterday Charley Forward attempted to murder his brother William. While William was stooping over his brother struck him on the back of the neck with an ax, cutting his head frightfully, and when he fell jumped on him with a knife, cutting his face and neck and taking one ear off. He then sprinkled him with coal oil and set fire to him. William having enough life left, crawled out in the snow to a bluff, where he managed to put out the fire. He was found by the neighbors in a dying condition. The neighbors then went in search of Charley and found him frozen to death in the house.

OLD MAN ON TRIAL.

Horace Steele, Savings Bank President, Answering to Forgery Charges.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 13.—The trial of Horace Steele, president of the wrecked Painesville Savings bank, is on in the criminal court. Steele was indicted on two counts of forgery shortly after the bank went to pieces. Ralph Paige, cashier of the bank, indicted at the same time, pleaded guilty and is serving a long term, and David R. Paige, also charged with having aided in the collapse, fled to South America, where he still lives, a fugitive from justice. Mr. Steele is nearly 80 years old. Steele's trial has been postponed from time to time, until over two and a half years have elapsed since he was indicted.

Going Back to Europe.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 13.—The Times today gives the details of a large movement of foreigners, to the extent of an exodus, from the anthracite coal fields to Europe.

CRANE VISITS SEELEY.

Meeting Between Bank President and His Embezzling Bookkeeper.

PRISONER MUCH AFFECTED.

After Being Cloistered Half an Hour the Banker Announced That Seeley Would Not Talk Publicly About the Case. Baker His Only Accomplish—McFarland Must Wait For His Reward.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Embezzler Seeley was this morning taken before United States Commissioner Wirt, before whom he waived preliminary examination, and an order was issued for his return to New York. An officer will start with him this afternoon.

Late last evening President Crane of the Shoe and Leather bank arrived in the city, and after a conference with federal and city officers called to see his defaulting bookkeeper. As the latter entered Inspector Shea's office Seeley rushed out and took the extended hand of President Crane. As the president shook Seeley's hand with the warmth of an old friend it was readily seen that Seeley was much affected. His body trembled with emotion, his lips quivered and in a low, stammering tone of voice he said:

"Mr. Crane, I did not think you would want to shake hands with me."

Mr. Crane, pushing Seeley into the chair beside him, replied in kindly tones: "Why, Sam, I am glad to see you; sit down."

Closeted With His Former Employee.

The door closed on the two men. For half an hour they were closeted together and then Inspector Shea, at the request of Mr. Crane, invited the newspaper reporters in waiting to enter the room. To them President Crane said:

"Gentlemen, from the importance of the affair, you naturally expect some startling developments from the conversation I have had with Mr. Seeley. I have called you in that I might speak in his presence. He absolutely refused to talk about his case. He says he is entirely in the hands of his counsel, who has requested that he talk to no one about the matter. He has told me that there is no one whom he would rather tell all than to me, but that he would obey the injunction of his counsel. He stubbornly, if you please, but firmly refuses to talk."

Turning to Seeley, he said: "Is that not so, Sam?"

"Yes, sir; I refuse to talk about the matter."

Baker His Only Accomplish.

At the suggestion of a reporter, President Crane asked the following questions of Seeley: "Was there any one else connected with this defalcation besides Baker?"

"That is the man," replied Seeley.

"Were there no others?"

"No one else."

"I believe Mr. Seeley is glad that this thing is all over," said Mr. Crane. "A great load has been lifted from his mind. He has been a wanderer for the past two weeks, and I know that he feels better now."

Seeley smiled in assent and was taken back to his cell in Harrison street station.

Mr. Crane said last night that the reward will be paid only after the conviction of the prisoner. This will be said news for McFarland, who has made several calls on the police department to see when he was going to get that $3,000. He wants it all at once and he wants it now.

SPACE SAVERS.

City National bank at Quahab, Tex., has closed. Its cashier is charged with embezzling $23,000.

William H. Price, Cleveland merchant, while investigating a noise in his house, was killed by a burglar.

Reports that Japs were guilty of heathen horrors upon the capture of Port Arthur have been confirmed.

National Civil Service association closed business behind closed doors in Chicago, and later held a public meeting which Carl Shurz addressed.

Attorney Goff called Charles A. Grant for the Lexow committee. Grant was an ex-police commissioner's clerk and did not appear. Mr. Goff said he didn't expect the witness, as the committee was prepared to prove that he had accepted innumerable bribes.

Texas's Amusement.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Octavius Solvig, a bartender, was shot and fatally wounded last night by Robert D. Wellman, an attorney of Henrietta, Tex. Wellman had been drinking in the saloon and as he was leaving turned and fired the shot.

GING CASE DEVELOPMENTS.

The Pretty Dressmaker's Death the Possible Conspiracy of an Insurance Gang.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 13.—The Journal says more arrests are probable in the Gilling murder—that the man who sent a note to Miss Gilling from in front of the West hotel on the morning of the murder is at least important as a witness, and that his identity has been established and his arrest will follow. From the first one of the causes of wonder has been that Harry Hayward should have conspired to kill Miss Gilling for a paltry share of $10,000 insurance. But now, on very good authority, it is said the young lady had five $5,000 policies instead of two and that three other persons besides Hayward were in the murder plans. The existence of the additional policies has remained unpublished because of fear of the holders to present them for payment.

Evidence is now pretty well in hand that Hayward was the local member of an insurance gang. A detective working on the case has discovered that the methods of this gang were to secure life insurance on persons who could be induced to take out heavy insurance on the representation that money could be borrowed on the policies. It would be plainly demonstrated to the insured that a profitable business could be carried on in this way. The plan to murder Catherine Gilling was developed by four members of the gang, of whom Hayward was one. These four men were in Miss Gilling's room holding a conference with her on Sunday afternoon, the day before the murder. The men employed by the insurance companies and by the local authorities in hunting up the missing evidence are very reticent.

CANADA'S PRIME MINISTER.

Sir John Thompson Expires Suddenly at a Luncheon in England.

WINDSOR, Eng., Dec. 13.—Sir John Thompson, prime minister of Canada, died suddenly yesterday after having been sworn in as a member of the privy council. The ceremonial had passed off and Sir John was driven back to his hotel. There luncheon was served. About 15 members of the queen's household and the ministers who had come for the ceremony were present. Sir John sat between Miss Harbord, the lady in waiting, and Lord Pelham Clinton, the master of the queen's household. Sir John swooned and Lord Pelham Clinton and Lord Brodrie, an admiral, ministered brandy and summoned Dr. Read.

When Sir John revived he told Dr. Read he had only a slight heart attack, returned to luncheon and was apparently enjoying a quiet when Dr. Read happened to look in his direction and saw the premier fall against Miss Harbord. Life was soon extinct. Heart disease caused death.

MYRON REED'S TALK.

He Tells Federation Delegates How They May Look Like Tramps.

DENVER, Dec. 13.—The affairs of the labor federation's convention are as yet virtually in the hands of various committees. Myron W. Reed spoke again to the delegates yesterday afternoon, saying: "This is a well dressed body of men, but I will guarantee if you go out and ask for work and food, and sleep in your clothes, you will look like tramps." He said Governor Waite was the only governor who had ever called out the troops to protect the poor. He was warmly applauded.

Last night the English delegates addressed a large meeting in the Broadway theater. John Burns declared that the agitators have come to stay.

Tariff Resolution.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—At the monthly meeting of the board of trade and transportation yesterday the warmest discussion was caused by a resolution on the tariff question. The preamble states that while the present tariff bill is an unsatisfactory compromise, "it is better than uncertainty," and the resolution demands that the coming congress shall not interfere with the present bill, but that the country be allowed a period of respiration. After a spirited discussion the resolution was passed.

Young Beardsley, Missing College Student, Said to Be Doing Evangelical Work in Canadian Slums—Elevator Fired and a Freight Train Robbed—General News of the State.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 13.—William N. Comer, an old citizen of prominence, died yesterday of a broken heart. His son was recently sentenced to the penitentiary for three years and the old man grieved violently until death relieved him. His other sons and the entire family have fine reputations. The one wayward boy, now 20 years old, had been in the reform school until a few months ago, having five years ago committed a burglary. For a time he lived correctly after being released, but later drifted into the society of thieves and was convicted of robbing a cigar store.

WORKING IN THE SLUMS.

Carl Beardsley Said to Be Doing Evangelical Work in Canadian Cities.

ELKHART, Ind., Dec. 13.—Carl Beardsley of this city, the missing Ann Arbor student, has been heard from through his companion on the trip to Detroit. Messick says Beardsley left Detroit to engage in religious work in the slums of the large Canadian cities, devoting his life and fortune to reclaim fallen humanity. The theory of foul play is no longer credited. Before leaving Ann Arbor Beardsley wrote a letter asking that his large property interests in this city be sold and the proceeds devoted to evangelical work.

FIRE AND THEFT.

Freightcars Robbed During the Burning of an Elevator.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Dec. 13.—Yesterday the Grand Trunk elevator and warehouse were entirely destroyed by fire. Postmaster John Brodie used the warehouse, which contained 10,000 bushels of wheat and 2,000 bushels of oats, besides a quantity of hay and straw. Mr. Brodie's loss is in excess of $8,000. The origin of the fire was undoubtedly incendiary. Every car attached to the westbound local freight train on the Grand Trunk, which was sidetracked a half-mile distant, was broken into and robbed of several thousand dollars' worth of goods during the progress of the fire.

A. building in the state and turned it over to the association. He failed, however, to give a deed, and when business reverses forced his assignment the building passed into the hands of his assignee. It will have to be sold in a few months, and the association has no money to buy it.

Rapid Changing of Name.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Dec. 13.—Mrs. Martin Ruhl was formerly Miss Annie Warwick, and later Mrs. William Kreuzan. Yesterday she secured a divorce from Kreuzan and her maiden name was restored. She has had nine children, three of them being alive. They are 77, 65 and 58 years old respectively. She has 57 grandchildren and 26 great grandchildren. They are scattered all over the United States. She is totally blind, having been stricken four years ago. Her husband died when a young man and while still a member of the Jefferson household. Morrison, accused of breach of discipline, had been rescinded. The local authorities do not know what course the war department will pursue in the case. Captain Morrison is accused of insubordination during the railroad strike, but in extension it is urged that at times he suffered from mental aberration.

The yellow metal is again rapidly getting away from Secretary Carlisle. He will issue more bonds pretty soon. About $12,000,000 has been withdrawn so far this month.

W. L. WILSON writes: "I am confident that the people will soon learn that the democratic party did not deserve any such chastisement." Their only doubt will be that the chastisement may not have been severe enough, for William adds, "I don't allow myself to repine over my own reverses."

Kelley-Hillis.

A beautiful home wedding was the ceremony that united Mr. Herbert G. Kelley of this city, and Miss Olive C. Hillis, Wednesday evening at the comfortable and cozy country residence of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hillis, at Limerdale. At 7:30 o'clock the bride and groom entered the parlor to the strains of a wedding march played by Miss Susie Kelley, sister of the groom. Rev. D. M. Wood assisted by Rev. U. G. Leazenby, pronounced the rites, the impressive ring ceremony being used. There were about one hundred guests present, a pleasant and unusual feature of the gathering being that nearly sixty of them were cousins. The house was handsomely decorated with ferns and chrysanthemums. After hearty congratulations refreshments were served, elegant in quality and bountiful in quantity, and a delightful evening was spent by the guest assembled. The "Hayseed" band furnished some pleasing music as a serenade. Today at noon occurred the infirm dinner at the residence of Mr. A. D. Kelley, father of the groom, east of the city, which was attended by a large number of friends of the families. Mr. and Mrs. Kelley were the recipients of many useful, beautiful and costly presents. They will go to housekeeping at once on north Indiana street, this city, and they enter life's journey with exceptionally bright prospects. The groom is one of Greencastle's energetic and prosperous young business men and he gains as a bride one of Putnam's most favorably known young ladies. The BANNER TIMES extends congratulations.

Cooper-Johnston.

On Tuesday at 9 o'clock a. m. occurred the marriage of Mr. Aaron W. Cooper junior, member of Cooper Bros. hardware company of this city, and Miss Mattie M. Johnston of Rockville. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parent, Mr. James T. Johnston, in the presence of only a few invited friends and relatives. Rev. Maxwell, pastor of the M. E. church of that city, pronouncing the ceremony. After refreshments were served the happy couple took the train for Greencastle via Terre Haute. Upon arriving here they were immediately driven to Mr. Cooper's home north of the city, where an informal reception was given. Those attending from here were Revs. Church and Greene, Miss Dovie Lloyd, Miss Estella Perkins and Mr. Joe Perkins.

Commenting on the wedding the Rockville Tribune says:

Miss Mattie Johnston, only daughter of Hon. James T. Johnston, was married at the home of her parents Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, to Aaron W. Cooper, of Greencastle. Only a few relatives and intimate friends witnessed the ceremony and attended an elegant wedding breakfast. The happy couple left on the 11 o'clock train for Greencastle where the groom has a pleasant home all furnished ready for housekeeping. This is another of Rockville's attractive young ladies appropriated by an outsider. Miss Johnston is well known to all of our people as a bright and pleasant girl, and by those who were more intimately acquainted, as one of unusually bright mind.

Fever and a Bad Cough. Following this a sore came on her right side between the two lower ribs. In a short time another broke on the left side. She would take spells of sore mouth and when we had succeeded in overcoming this she would suffer with attacks of high fever and expel bloody looking corruption. Her head was affected and matter oozed from her ears. After each attack she became Invitations are out for a reception to be given by Kappa Alpha Theta at Miss Williamson's home on Bloomington street next Saturday evening at nine o'clock.

Four of DePauw's boys will become business men during the holiday vacation. Messrs. Johnson, Hollingsworth, Mahin and Hill will clerk in Shipley's jewelry store.

A great many students were disappointed in the last athletic concert from the fact that the numbers advertised were not filled. We can safely say that that difficulty has been fully overcome and that every number will be given fully and that a great many encore numbers have been prepared for use in the coming concert. The concert will be given mostly to humor, and the end men secured for the minstrel circle are stars, one having been on the stage last year.

Dyspepsia seldom causes death, but permits its victims to live on in misery. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

"MY OLD WARHORSE."

GENERAL LONGSTREET, RIGHT HAND MAN OF ROBERT E. LEE.

A Leader Remarkable For Coolness In Action Who Dealt the Enemy Sledge Hammer Blows—His Battles With "Old Bull" Sumner and "Fighting Joe" Hooker.

[Copyright, 1894, by American Press Association. Book rights reserved.]

Readers of battle history can but wonder at the superb achievements of the Army of Northern Virginia. Sometimes overmatched, always poorly fed, as well as imperfectly equipped, the same men, barring those who fell, kept the field with the same organization four years. Perhaps the last named feature contributed to its high efficiency, because the same organization included the same leaders, as a rule, and the same leaders in a fighting army means the perfection of esprit de corps, the unquenchable fire of personal enthusiasm. Longstreet marshaled under his banner a brigade at Bull Run when the army numbered 20,000, next a division, later a grand division and corps, and when his columns grew larger the original troops formed a unit in the enlarged command. Hence it is not a mere picturesque figure of rhetoric to write of "Longstreet's veterans" at Gettysburg and the Wilderness, for among the ranks which he hurled against Round Top and Cemetery Ridge, in the columns which he rushed with the speed and might of a tempest down the Plank road at the Wilderness, were battle scarred heroes whom he had led at Antietam, Manassas and on the peninsula—yes, even at Bull Run.

There was no active fighting in the battle proper at Bull Run (July 21) for Longstreet's brigade, but on the 19th he repulsed the first Union attack on Blackburn's ford and defended the crossing on the flank of McDowell's army while it passed the upper ford and bridge to the battlefield. At Williamsburg, on the peninsula, Longstreet commanded a division and displayed his fighting propensities a little beyond what, in the minds of his superiors, the situation called for. The Confederate army under Joe Johnston evacuated Yorktown on May 4, retreating through Williamsburg toward Richmond. The rear guard consisted of the divisions of Longstreet and D. H. Hill under Longstreet's control. General Sumner, the Old Bull of the Woods, had the advance of McClellan's column in pursuit, and with his usual impetuosity attacked the rearguard and breastworks occupied by Longstreet's men. Instead of withdrawing Longstreet stood battle, giving Sumner a bloody repulse. This was the first of numerous encounters between these two generals, the opposites in nature. Longstreet was cool in the hottest action, while Sumner became aroused. They subsequently met often, and the aggressor always got the worst of it. Whether the cool head or the hot head, it was the same.

In their next battle, Fair Oaks, May 31 and June 1, Longstreet played the role often assigned to him when Stonewall Jackson wasn't at hand—that of a flanker on the enemy's flank. His division burst upon the isolated left wing of McClellan's army across the Chickahominy and was in a fair way of destroying it when McClellan sent Sumner to its relief. Marching his men over bridges which were half submerged by a sudden rise of water, he checked Longstreet's advance the evening of the first day, and the next drove him back to his own lines near Richmond.

In the next battle Longstreet commanded a grand division, his own troops united with A. P. Hill's. The movement to assault McClellan's right wing north of the Chickahominy had been taken up by the new commander of the Army of Northern Virginia, Robert E. Lee. Jackson was withdrawn from the Shenandoah valley to strike the Union flank, leaving it to Longstreet's column to dislodge the enemy from his fortified line close to the river, hug that stream with his right flank and sweep everything before him, while Jackson operated on the Union rear. Naturally Longstreet encountered the chief obstacles to the maneuver. McClellan's right wing was led by Fitz John Porter. He fought Longstreet's advance at Beaver Dam creek on June 26, exacting a toll for his passage of that slender rivulet of nearly 4,000 men killed and wounded. Porter then retired to a new line on the heights at Gaines Mill, where he fortified. Jackson took a long time to get around to the Union flank, and when he reached there it was to encounter fresh supports of infantry and artillery sent to Porter's aid by McClellan in time to foil Jackson. Longstreet's line, lying at right angles to the river, was enfiladed by Union batteries across the stream. Besides the main strength of Porter lay on Longstreet's front, heavy batteries and strong intrenchments. A. P. Hill led a savage attack upon the Union center, but the men recoiled after terrible slaughter. Longstreet put his own division to the attack to support Hill, but it met with the same fate. Repeated attempts to carry the key positions failed, and then Longstreet organized a grand attack of four brigades. Meanwhile Jackson's guns had been heard off on the flank, D. H. Hill's troops had burst through Porter's right center, and the whole left as far as the river gave way before Longstreet's steady advance.

At Gaines Mill Longstreet gave an example of the sledge hammer blows which he so ably dealt in battle. At the proper time they count far more than the most brilliant dash. After a day of such work at Antietam, where he saved Lee's army, his chief embraced him on the field, calling him "My Old Warhorse," a name far more appropriate for his solid character than the favorite one used by his soldiers, Old Pete.

In the heat of battle Longstreet was impetuous, a rare quality among leaders who acquire brilliant fame. Union soldiers upon Round Top paused to see him riding calmly in the fire of the wheatfield and along Devil's den, preserving a stately, firm seat, as though passing down a line on review. On one occasion after a charge of his command where the ranks had been torn into patches by the Union shells and canister the leader of a Georgia brigade, General Banning, galloped up to him on an artillery horse, using a trace rope for a whip. Red and panting with excitement, he cried out: "General, my brigade is cut to pieces! For God's sake send me some men!" Without turning his head or moving a muscle of his face in sympathy Longstreet coolly said, "Don't you think you can find one man of your brigade, General Banning?"

Disfounded with the provoking manner of his chief, Banning stammered out, "Yes, general, probably I could find one man."

THE FIVE O'CLOCK TEA.

Novel and Decorative Effects Introduced With Grape Paper of Various Tints.

When grape paper was placed upon the market a few years ago, it commanded little attention. The possibilities of its development were not realized. It was not long, however, before its delicate color and effect, with its strong and durable texture, occasioned examination, and from examination has come adoption. Now it is in general use, although its actual possibilities are still to be realized. What this style of paper can do for the ornamentation of a home and in every corner of it is as yet unknown. Something of what it can do was told not long ago in the columns of The Ladies' Home Journal. With other illustrations given was that of a 5 o'clock tea, a pretty affair in the shades of violet. Masses of violets are lying here and there upon the table, which is draped with the grape paper and satin ribbon to match. It is in a delicate lavender, with the edge tinted violet, and flowers are all in the latter shade, from a pale lavender to the darkest purple, though, if one is not partial to the darker element and would keep it light and soft, the deeper hues can be omitted.

On the lamp, which is an almost indispensable addition to the table, there is a shade of lavender trimmed with rosettes of half inch wide lavender ribbon. Perhaps the most striking color for an ambitious woman's tea table is magenta. As the grape paper is not prepared in the solid magenta coloring, one may use the white with the edge tinted magenta. For the decoration great golden hearted orchids, with the tips of their rosy petals touched with the brilliant magenta, are fastened to the table with smart bows of magenta satin ribbon. If a lamp is used, the shade should be white, with a line of magenta coloring for the border, and may be rendered additionally attractive by the addition of rosettes of narrow magenta ribbon.

A yellow 5 o'clock tea is particularly desirable, especially if two shades of yellow or yellow and white are used. The flowers can be chrysanthemums or orchids. Narcissus and jonquils also form an attractive decoration when used with ribbon of the same or contrasting color.

Pink is also a good color. The light falling through a shade of this tint is soft and delicate. Convulvi, or morning glories, as they are more commonly called, afford a desirable decoration, in which the pink or green coloring predominates. The delicate trailing vine work, from which emerges an occasional pink cup, forms an exquisite finish to the table.

Bridesmaids' Gowns.

Grosgrains and various corded silks are used for bridesmaids' gowns. These crisp silks, says Harper's Bazar, will form the wide skirt and stand out sleeves, while some softer fabric will be draped as a high round waist. Colored satins will also be chosen for these young maidens' dresses, but instead of the stately stand alone fabric worn by the bride they will wear the softer liberty satin in delicate shades of rose pink or yellow. Gray and geranium red satins are worn by English bridesmaids, but one is too cold looking and the other too showy. A good plan is to have the gowns of white liberty satin, completing them with a colored collar and belt of mink velvet. In this variety may be given and something becoming found for each maiden, as in a group of six bridesmaids three brunettes will wear corsets or geranium velvet collars and three blondes either bluet or green collars. Still another set of four maidens is to have mauve and golden yellow added in chiffon collars and in blouse fronts on white tulle gowns that are dotted with these colors. White gloves and white slippers will be worn with white dresses. With colored gowns the slippers and stockings are of the same color.

Recipe For Orange Snow.

One ounce of isinglass dissolved in a pint of boiling water. Strain and allow to stand until nearly cold. Mix with the isinglass the juice of 6 or 7 oranges, according to size and quantity of juice. Add to this mixture the whites of 3 eggs and sugar to taste. Beat with an egg beater long and thoroughly until white and foamy. A good boiled custard, flavored with orange juice poured around it after removing from the mold, is very nice.

Fads and Fashions.

The buckle fad amounts to a craze. The favorite shapes are in the form of a heart and a circle, and these adorn the stock collars as well as the belts.

For real novelties millinery takes the lead. Hats are enormous, and a shape called the "jam pot" crown, which rises from a broad brim, has reappeared.

Black satins are in great demand to make up with velvets.

Dresses for daily wear continue to have plain but very full skirts.

The necessity for a safety riding skirt has brought various kinds to light, but the latest one invented is practically a large apron in the saddle, and a complete walking skirt when it is buttoned together. It does away with the disfiguring bulge at the knee, and the wearer can walk and ride with equal comfort.

New Tariff and Income Tax Law.

The Gorman tariff law, passed recently by congress, has been republished by the Tribune in pamphlet form, 52 pages, giving the language of the act in full, and comparing its rates with those of the McKinley bill. This is the only complete and accurate comparison of the two laws. The pamphlet also contains the new income tax law, which Congress ordered to take effect January 1, 1895. The new rates of duty have discouraged agriculture, lowered wages, decreased the revenue, and frightened employers. Every reflecting man will find, first in the threat of this legislation and next its actuality, the source of the hard times. 10 cents a copy. For sale at the BANNER TIMES office. d&w-tf
